

Advanced Services - Solutions Consultant, Americas

David Hasenstab

Location: US / Languages: English

David Hasenstab is a Solutions Consultant for the Cloud Communications division of NTT with a focus on global voice solutions for Microsoft Teams.

David has spent nearly two decades in the Microsoft Partner Community supporting the UC needs of customers across all industries and sectors. From his early days as a strategic account manager and sales representative, David took the "road less traveled" into technical design and consulting services. Those years made a lasting impression as he continues to pursue business-IT alignment in every cloud voice opportunity.

As a Solutions Consultant, his responsibilities take him all over the Americas (virtually) and offer a panoramic view of the UC needs of a diverse user community. The exposure has expanded his engagements from conventional discovery and scoping efforts to global voice design and strategy workshops covering a wide range of topics including technical design, cost analysis, governance, and organizational change management.

When he is not busy identifying and conveying specific returns on UC&C investments for NTT's valued customers, he's immersed in the active lifestyle that the Pacific Northwest affords.
